for an extra pair
of jeans?

You could help a local young person gain valuable life skills in a rewarding role as a Stepping Stones host www.fosteringinsomerset.org.uk

From cooking their first meal to landing their first job, Stepping Stones host's help young people leaving care to gain the crucial life skills they need to lead safe, fulfilling lives as young adults.

This is a rewarding role where you can truly make a difference to the life and future of a local young person. They'll grow in confidence and skills as they learn how to manage their money, apply for work, and complete household chores under your guidance.

Stepping Stones hosts need to be aged 23 or over with a spare room in their home. No experience is needed as full training and support is provided alongside weekly payments to support you financially, but an understanding of young people would be helpful.
